Miss Alabama
GETS MARRIED!

Judd Waddell has been delighting brides with his simple, elegant designs since 2000. Approaching each dress with the philosophy, "notice the woman first, the dress second," has earned him not only appreciation from his bridal clients, but a great deal of media attention. Twice Judd Waddell's designs have been featured on Lifetime Television's "Weddings of a Lifetime." In addition, Judd Waddell designed the bridal gown and bridal party dresses for Twentieth Century Fox's "The Object of My Affection." It is Judd Waddell's background in architectural design which has lent itself to his aesthetic of simplicity. Based in New York City, his creations are available across the United States as well as in Canada and Japan. His designs are the epitome of classic modern elegance.

For 2008, Judd Waddell has given us a widely diverse collection, offering silhouettes ranging from a full-skirted ball gown to a sleek goddess style dress. All are sweetly feminine with elegant touches of lace or delicate beading. In this collection, he also explores the effect of layers on different silhouettes. One is an airy confection of light layers cascading from a simple princess seamed bodice. Another dress is a layer upon layer of chiffon to create an exquisite Grecian goddess silhouette. He also features longer ruched bodices over skirts of duchesse satin, giving them a sexy, modern look. Never overpowering, always chic, Judd Waddell is the epitome of timeless elegance.

The Proposal:

Frank and Catherine met at a mutual friend's home in Orange Beach, Alabama on Labor Day, 2005. Two months later, they went on their first date. On January 24, 2007, the couple went to see a mortgage broker in Birmingham about purchasing a home. After they returned to Frank's home in Tuscaloosa, he presented Catherine with a huge bouquet of roses and a beautiful engagement ring. It was the perfect moment: private, sincere and unforgettable. The couple then celebrated with champagne at Chuck's Fish, a local restaurant.
